

2015 Directory of
Board Certified
Legal Specialists

Certified by the
North Carolina State Bar

The Building Blocks of Board Certification:
Experience - Knowledge - Professional Reputation

www.nclawspecialists.gov

The North Carolina State Bar, an agency of the state of North Carolina, certifies lawyers as specialists in designated practice areas as a service to the public. The program assists members of the public in the selection of legal counsel by identifying lawyers who have demonstrated special knowledge, skill, and proficiency in certain areas of law. The program also gives lawyers a credible way of making their expertise known to the public and other lawyers.

To be certified as a specialist in a practice area, a lawyer must

1. Be an active member in good standing with the North Carolina State Bar for at least five years,
2. Devote at least 25% of his or her practice to the specialty during the past five years (substantial involvement),
3. Attend continuing legal education (CLE) seminars in the specialty,
4. Be favorably evaluated by other lawyers and judges (peer review), and
5. Pass a written examination in the specialty practice area.

Certification is granted for a period of five years. To be recertified, a lawyer must again demonstrate that he or she is substantially involved in the practice area, attend CLE seminars in the practice area, and be favorably evaluated by peers.

This directory lists the lawyers certified as legal specialists in the following areas as of January 1, 2015:

Appellate Practice

Bankruptcy Law

- Business Bankruptcy Law
- Consumer Bankruptcy Law

Criminal Law

- Federal Criminal Law
- Juvenile Delinquency Law
- State Criminal Law

Elder Law

Estate Planning and Probate Law

Family Law

Immigration Law

Real Property Law

- Business, Commercial & Industrial Transactions
- Residential Transactions

Social Security Disability Law

"The requirements to be a certified specialist are stringent and give a lawyer credibility from the get-go. The bankruptcy courts also recognize the certification and place a value on it. That is really rewarding." – George Oliver, a board certified specialist in business bankruptcy law since 2006, practices in New Bern.

“When lawyers specialize they are much more focused and involved in their practice area. That focus allows them to be better prepared and to save their clients money. They can easily identify cases where they will need outside assistance and know who to associate for help.” – Shelby Benton, a board certified specialist in family law since 1995, practices in Goldsboro.

“I really believe that it’s important for the community—and particularly the immigrant community—to know who to trust with their legal issues. Immigration law is very complicated and clients need to find a lawyer who has real expertise.” – Heather Ziembra, a board certified specialist in immigration law since 2011, practices in Charlotte.

“Social Security law is unique in that there are also nonlawyer representatives that handle these cases as well. Some of them are good at what they do, but some of them are misleading about their ability to handle a complicated case in its entirety, through an appeal. Some clients come to us confused and dissatisfied with their former nonlawyer representation. We can assure our clients that we are able to handle their case through an appeal at the highest level, to federal court.” – Robert A. Joneth, a board certified specialist in social security disability law since 2006, practices in Raleigh.

Areas of Specialization

· Appellate Practice: The specialty of appellate practice is the practice of law relating to appeals to the Appellate Division of the North Carolina General Courts of Justice, as well as appeals to appellate-level courts of any state or territory of the United States, the Supreme Court of the United States, the United States Courts of Appeals, the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces and the United States Courts of Criminal Appeals for the armed forces, and any tribal appellate court for a federally recognized Indian tribe.

· Bankruptcy Law: The specialty of business bankruptcy law is the practice of law dealing with laws and procedures involving the rights, obligations, and remedies between commercial debtors and creditors in potential or pending federal bankruptcy cases (Chapter 7, Chapter 9, Chapter 11, and Chapter 12) and state insolvency actions. The specialty of consumer bankruptcy law is the practice of law dealing with laws and procedures involving the rights, obligations, and remedies between consumer debtors and creditors in potential or pending federal bankruptcy cases (Chapter 7, Chapter 12, and Chapter 13) and state insolvency actions.

· Criminal Law: The specialty of state criminal law is the practice of law relating to the defense or prosecution of individuals charged with misdemeanor and felony crimes in state trial courts, while the specialty of federal criminal law also includes such representation in federal trial court. Includes our newest subspecialty of juvenile delinquency law which focuses specifically on the practice of law in state juvenile delinquency courts.

· Elder Law: The specialty of elder law is the practice of law involving the counseling and representation of older persons and their representatives relative to the legal aspects of health and long term care planning; public benefits; surrogate decision-making, legal capacity; the conservation, disposition, and administration of the estates of older persons; and the implementation of decisions of older persons and their representatives relative to the foregoing with due consideration to the applicable tax consequences of an action, or the need for more sophisticated tax expertise.

· Estate Planning: The specialty of estate planning and probate law is the practice of law dealing with planning for the conservation and disposition of estates, including consideration of federal and state tax consequences; the preparation of legal instruments to effectuate estate plans; and the probate of wills and administration of estates, including federal and state tax matters.

· Family Law: The specialty of family law is the practice of law relating to marriage, divorce, alimony, child custody and support, equitable distribution, enforcement of support, domestic violence, bastardy, and adoption.

· Immigration Law: The practice of the specialty of immigration law concerns obtaining and retaining permission for non-citizens to enter and remain in the United States including, but not limited to, representation on such matters as visas, changes of status, deportation and exclusion, naturalization, appearances before courts and governmental agencies, and protection of constitutional rights.

· Real Property Law: Practice in the specialty of commercial real property law includes title examinations, the determination of property rights, and the acquisition, ownership, leasing, management, financing, development, use, transfer, and disposition of business, commercial, and industrial real property. Practice in the specialty of residential real property law includes title examinations, the determination of property rights, and the acquisition, ownership, leasing, financing, use, transfer, and disposition of residential real property.

· Social Security Disability Law: The specialty of Social Security disability law is the practice of law relating to the analysis of claims and controversies arising under Title II and Title XVI of the Social Security Act and the representation of claimants in those matters before the Social Security Administration and/or the federal courts.

· Trademark Law: The specialty of trademark law is the practice of law devoted to commercial symbols, and typically includes the following: advising clients regarding creating and selecting trademarks, conducting and/or analyzing trademark searches, prosecuting trademark applications, enforcing and protecting trademark rights, and counseling clients on matters involving trademarks. Practitioners regularly practice before the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO), the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB), the Trademark Division of the NC Secretary of State's Office, and the North Carolina and/or federal courts.

· Workers' Compensation Law: The practice of the specialty of workers' compensation law concerns the representation of employees and the defense of employers and their insurance carriers on employees' claims for medical treatment, benefits, and the loss of ability to work arising out of workplace injuries, which includes representation before the Industrial Commission.
